Tuesday, February 11: Addressing Health Disparities

Recognizing and addressing health disparities among certain subsets of the population served by PBHCI is critical to achieving overall improvements in physical health. During Day 2 grantees will (1) learn about techniques for comparing the health status of their sub-populations – within the agency, among other PBHCI grantees, and nationally; (2) hear from grantees about the strategies they have employed to address health disparities; and (3) create a team action plan for addressing health disparities in their agency.

- 8:30 am – 9:30 am Comparing Your Health Disparate Populations to National and PBHCI Aggregate Data: Setting Goals for Your Sub-Populations
The first step to addressing health disparities is understanding the current physical health status of your sub-populations. Aaron Williams will lead grantees in a discussion on how to use health registries to break down their PBHCI population at a more granular level.

As part of the HHS Action Plan to Reduce Racial and Ethnic Health Disparities, Cohorts V and VI grantees submitted a Health Disparities Impact Statement, which identified subsets within the population they intend to serve that may have disparate access to, use of, or outcomes from provided services. PBHCI grantees will share the progress they have made in serving their sub-populations.

Aaron Williams will facilitate a brief report out about the action plans grantees have developed and summarize the discussions of the past day and a half. Grantees will also complete the meeting evaluation.
